Report on
Santali Language Day (English Version)

Santali Language Day was celebrated for the first time in the college on December 22nd, 2021 after the formation of the new Santali Department.

Santali language or 'Alochiki' got recognition from the government after a long struggle on 22nd December 2003, when by then 15 regional adivasi/tribal languages had already been acknowledged.

To commemorate this achievement, the Santali Department celebrated the 'Santali Language Day' on 22nd of December which was graced by the Principal of the college, teacher and other distinguished people. The Guest of Honor was the famous Santali writer 'Sai Kishan Mumo' & social worker Sri Manik Hansda.

The program began with welcoming of guests in the traditional Santali style, followed by the garlanding of the photo of Sai Raghonath Mumo & Santali welcome song. The guests were gifted with a plant & Principal addressed the gathering. The program witnessed ^{Santali} songs, dances & lectures & ended with the note of thanks by the Head of the Department.
